

Hhh2287 ET and Singapore Sling, Some really wet place, Griffin

From the Northside of Brisbane they came

To predictably hash in the rain

Of shelter there was none

But we did have some fun

And the hash mash was certainly not plain

Well, not much to say really. It was very wet and I think the first time I've worn a beanie hashing in brisbane (#softcock). Still, I was nice and warm. Five runners tonight (B1, Figjam, Cheeseey, Overproof and SC) and even the cheeselet ran about 4km. Bit of an out and back but when you're on a promontory what else is going to happen. Boxy turned up, but that was hardly remarkable. 😊

We gathered round the BBQ hot plates and by the wonders of time, the RA had even turned up complete with HHH rulebook, trying to tell us that the RA is infallible. A likely story. Still, the comedic duo worked their magic and even Boxy joined in with some story or other. Food was amazing, with home made sambal, vegetable curry and a beef curry also. 10/10 for food. -20/10 for run.

Charges:

Overproof, Heartstarter, Vampire- As 9 May was the celebration of Russian victory over Nazis, and we're not very happy with Russkis at the moment, anyone with a Russian or German name/ ancestry

Singapore Sling- pretending to have a long wick (on his lamp)

Ryvita- maintaining perkiness despite gravity and advanced years

Clacker- RA failing to get the weather right and causing it to rain on the hash

Yackety- causing something to pop up on Clacker

Flower- calling B1 and figjam monks- due to their matching Drizabone outfits

Heartstarter- holy thermals following silverfish feasting

Chunda- lookalike for someone

Awards

Big prick- Overproof to Figjam

Shut the fuck up shirt- Chunda to ET

Birthdays

Yackety

Vampire

This week's Run- Ryvita, 12 Andracia Street, Kallangur